Dramatic central highlands and manicured gardens create the ultimate backdrop at the Four Seasons Resort Lana`i, The Lodge at Koele. The charming manor on the private island of Lana`i has been beautifully enhanced to maintain the genteel luxury, natural beauty and gracious unique Hawaiian hospitality for which it has long been known.

The resort exudes peace in a spectacular setting while providing the special touches for which Four Seasons is famous. By day, guests can stroll through a greenhouse brimming with exotic orchids or sip afternoon tea in the Great Hall. The resort is defined by the Great Hall, featuring high-beamed ceilings, twin stone fireplaces and a collection of rare art. Lana`i is home to two 18-hole championship golf courses noted for their uniqueness. Koele, designed by Greg Norman, offers views of neighboring Maui and Moloka`i.

The number 17 "signature hole" features a stunning 250-foot drop surrounded by trees to the deepest ravine on Lana`i. Golfers should also play the Jack Nicklaus designed Challenge at Manele. Its number 12 "signature hole" is played from a cliff 150 feet above the crashing surf, requiring a demanding 200-yard tee shot across the ocean.
