

AMANDARI

- ◆ “Resting Place for the Gods”
- ◆ High Above the Ayung River and In the Heart of Bali’s Cultural Center
- ◆ Near Rural Villages Noted for Woodcarving and Jewelry Making
- ◆ Gold List “Best Overseas Boutique Property” Luxury Travel & Style

Amandari is located in the beautiful hills of central Bali, rooting itself in the heart of the island’s cultural spirit. It is no wonder that Amandari is considered ‘the resting place for the Gods’. The resort seems to be set in the style of a local village and its spacious open-air lobby is designed after a wantilan, or village meeting place. The lobby features towering coconut tree columns and a cool honey-toned floor made from smooth Javanese marble and volcanic stone. Local teak and coconut wood are used throughout this boutique gem. The 30 free-standing suites and the Amandari Villa feature an outdoor sunken marble bath and stretches onto their scenic gardens.

Amandari has a special atmosphere, enhanced by the warm and gracious hospitality of the staff. The Restaurant, located to overlook the swimming pool and the gorge, specializes in Indonesian and Western cuisine.

No stay at Amandari would be complete without experiencing some of the exciting tours offered, like the white river rafting down the Ayung River, mountain biking, various guided treks and the early morning market tour and cooking school.

Profile: 30 suites (11 with private pools), children under 12 free in parents’ room, 105 foot pool, restaurant and bar, spa, gym, floodlit tennis court, golf available (45 minutes drive), library, boutique, wireless internet. Located 45 minutes from Denpasar Airport with a complimentary transfer. Open year round.